

Solve below problem statements

1. Write a program which is used to print priority of process.
2. Write a program which is used to increase the priority by 5.
3. Write a program which is used to yield our processor by using appropriate system call.
4. Write a program which is used to display Environment of our running process.
5. Write a program which is used to print home directory and login user name.

